U.S. Poultry and Egg Association presents scholarship donation to MISA Foundation.

Chicago, IL – John Starkey, president of the U.S. Poultry and Egg Association was on hand at Process Expo 2010 to present to Scott Scriven, president of Weber, Inc, a $5,000 donation intended to benefit the scholarship program of the Meat Industry Suppliers Alliance (MISA) Foundation.

“We are grateful for the generous support of the U.S. Poultry and Egg Association membership,” said Scriven, who is this year’s volunteer Chairman of the Food Processing Supplier’s Association. “In these days of rapidly rising tuition costs, it is vital that companies and individuals involved in the meat industry do all that is possible to help educate and prepare the next generation of leaders to face the ever-increasing challenges associated with production efficiency, food safety and environmental stewardship along with other concerns.”

The MISA Foundation Scholarship Program was established in 1989 to encourage and support college students interested in pursuing careers within the meat industry or engineering fields. Scholarship recipients are selected each year on the basis academic performance, commitment to a career goals and potential for success.

For the 2009-10 school year, the MISA Foundation presented three scholarship awards of $5,000 each and one award of the highly prized Siemens-MISA Scholarship worth $10,000 to deserving students attending North American universities. The MISA Foundation funds these scholarships though the generous support of Siemens Inc., contributions of MISA members, and monies raised at the Annual MISA Foundation auction held at the Annual Conference of FPSA each spring.

Interested donors and scholarship applicants can both find additional information on the FPSA web site at www.fpsa.org.
